2019 North American School of Information Theory

The 2019 North American School of Information Theory will be held from Tuesday, July 2nd to Friday, July 5th at Boston University in Boston, MA, USA. The school will offer graduate students and postdoctoral researchers the opportunity to learn from leading experts in information theory through short courses and talks as well as the chance to present their own work.